

Table 6. characteristics of included studies- design, number of included patients, intervention and control group for question 2a and 2b

| Study                                                                     | Participants                                                                                                                          | Comparison                                                            | Follow-up                                             | Outcome measures                                                                                                       | Comments                                     | Risk of bias (per outcome measure)*                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Question 2a arthroscopic versus open soft tissue (Bankart) surgery |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                       |                                                       |                                                                                                                        |                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Included in systematic review Khatri, 2018                         |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                       |                                                       |                                                                                                                        |                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Bottoni (2006)                                                     | N at baselineIntervention: 32Control: 29Age (mean, SD not provided)Intervention: 25.2Control: 25.1     | Intervention:Arthroscopic BankartControl:Open Bankart | Intervention: 28.5 monthsControl: 30 months   | Shoulder stability (defined as no episode of dislocation; data retrieved from original paper)Surgical duration |                                              | No blinding of subjects and clinicians, no intention to treat analysis                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Fabbriciani (2004)                                                 | N at baselineIntervention: 30Control: 30Age (mean, SD not provided)Intervention: 24.5Control: 26.8     | Intervention:Arthroscopic BankartControl:Open Bankart | Intervention: 24 monthsControl: 24 months     | None                                                                                                                   | None of the predefined outcomes was reported |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Mohatadi (2014)                                                    | N at baselineIntervention: 98Control: 98Age (mean, SD not provided)Intervention: 27.8Control: 27.2 | Intervention:Arthroscopic BankartControl:Open Bankart | Intervention: 24 monthsControl: 24 months     | Shoulder stability (defined as no episode of dislocation data; retrieved from original paper)Surgical duration |                                              | No blinding of subjects and assessors                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Netto (2012)                                                       | N at baselineIntervention: 17Control: 25Age (mean, SD not provided)Intervention: 27.8                      | Intervention:Arthroscopic BankartControl:Open Bankart | Intervention: 37.5 monthsControl: 37.5 months | Shoulder stability (defined as no episode of dislocation; data retrieved from original paper))                         |                                              | No blinding of subjects, clinicians and assessorsNo intention to treat analysis.It was stated that Netto (2012) reported surgical time as an outcome. However when considering the original paper, data on this outcome could not be identified. |

|                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                             |                                                   |                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                                                | Control: 27.2                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                             |                                                   |                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Sperber (2001)                                          | N at baselineIntervention: 30Control: 26Age (mean, SD not provided)Intervention: 25Control: 27.5                                                                                                                                                                             | Intervention:Arthroscopic BankartControl:Open Bankart                                       | Intervention: 24 monthsControl: 24 months | Shoulder stability (defined as no episode of dislocation; data retrieved from original paper)) |                                                                                                                                   | No blinding of subjects, clinicians and assessorsNo intention to treat analysis                                                                                               |
| Individual studies                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                             |                                                   |                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Gupta (2024)                                            | N at baselineIntervention: 182Control: 182Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 30.2, 7.9Control: 29.5, 8.1Sex (n female, %)Intervention: 54, 30%Control: 52, 29%Previous dislocations (mean, SD)Intervention: 3.4, 1.3Control: 3.5, 1.2 | Intervention:Arthroscopic Bankart surgery (Group II)Control:Open Bankart surgery (Group I)  | 3-, 6- and 12-months follow-up                    | RedislocationSurgical durationIntraoperative complications                     | It was stated that outcomes were assessed at 3-, 6- and 12-months follow-up. Only outcomes at 12 months follow-up were presented. | Information on allocation and. randomization procedures was not available.It was stated that surgeons were blindedProbably selective outcome reporting.           |
| Question 2b. arthroscopic versus open osseous procedure |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                             |                                                   |                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Studies included in the systematic review Deng, 2024    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                             |                                                   |                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Ali (2020)                                              | N at baseline-endIntervention: 37-33Control: 25-15Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 30 (7)Control: 28 (10)                                                                                                                                                                         | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group) | 24 months follow-up                               | Apprehension, complications (post-operative), (re)dislocation                                  | -                                                                                                                                 | Retrospective design- Loss the follow-up: 4 AL group, 10 OL group.- The selection of the procedure reflects the evolution of a single surgeon's practice.- NOS score: |

Table 6. characteristics of included studies- design, number of included patients, intervention and control group for question 2a and 2b
Richtlijn Chronische posttraumatische anterieure schouderinstabiliteit 2026

|                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                               |                                           |                                                                                                |                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|---------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Bonnevialle (2021) | N at baseline-endIntervention: 17-17Control: 22-22Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 22.3 (5.3)Control: 21.2 (4.8)Sex (n male)Intervention: 14Control: 21 | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group) | 2 weeks, 1.5 and every 3 months follow-up | None                                                                                           | None of the predefined outcomes was reported                                            | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Retrospective design</li> <li>- Clinical data were collected from medical files.</li> <li>- The type of procedure was determined by the treatment period. Patients operated between January 1, 2018, and June 30, 2018, underwent the AL technique, while those treated between July 1, 2018, and December 31, 2018, received the OL technique.</li> </ul> |
| Cunningham (2016)  | N at baseline-endIntervention: 28-28Control: 36-36Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 26.0 (7.6)Control: 25.0 (9.2)Sex (n male)Intervention: 24Control: 34 | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group) | 7 months                                  | (re)dislocation and subluxation, post-operative complications, surgical duration, apprehension |                                                                                         | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Retrospective design</li> <li>- Single surgeon's practice</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| Hurley1 (2021)     | N at baseline-endIntervention: 40-30Control: 110-72Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 32 (12.3)Control: 30 (10.0)Sex (n male)Intervention: 25Control: 32  | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group) | 12 months follow-up                       | (re)dislocation and subluxation                                                                | Dislocation and subluxations were defined as recurrent instability in the primary study | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Retrospective design</li> <li>- Evaluation of postoperative patient-reported outcomes was carried out following telephone survey.</li> <li>- Arthroscopic procedures were only performed by a single surgeon, open procedures were performed by multiple surgeons.</li> </ul>                                                                              |
| Hurley2 (2021)     | N at baseline-endIntervention: 40-40Control: 110-110                                                                                                                                             | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)                                             | 3 months follow-up                        | Post-operative complications                                                                   |                                                                                         | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Retrospective design: no predefined complication-reporting checklist</li> <li>- Arthroscopic procedures were only performed by a single surgeon, open</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                                                                           |

Table 6. characteristics of included studies- design, number of included patients, intervention and control group for question 2a and 2b
Richtlijn Chronische posttraumatische anterieure schouderinstabiliteit 2026

|                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                               |                                                                                                        |                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|----------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                            | Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 30.7 (11.5)Control: 28.4 (9.6)                                                                                                                                | Control:Open Latarjet (OL group)                                                          |                                                                                                        |                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                  | procedures were performed by multiple surgeons.- Outcomes assessors were not specified.- Limited follow-up                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|                            | Sex (n male, %)Intervention: 34 (85%)Control: 95 (86.4%)                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                               |                                                                                                        |                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Kordasiewicz (2016) | N at baseline-endIntervention: 66-62Control: 55-48Age (mean)Intervention: 26Control: 28Sex (n male)Intervention: 55Control: 2                      | Intervention:arthroscopic LatarjetControl:Open Latarjet                       | Only mean follow-up were presentedIntervention:23.4 (mean)Control:54.2m (mean) | (re)dislocation and subluxation, apprehension, surgical duration, complications  | (re)dislocation and subluxation defined as recurrence in the primary study                                                       | - Case control study- Only mean follow-up were presented- Mean follow-up differs between groups.- Seven patients were lost to follow-up, four refusing participation and only providing data via a phone interview (OL group)- Two patients were lost to follow-up (AL group)- The type of procedure was determined based on the patient's clinical and radiological findings, as well as a final joint inspection, particularly in the arthroscopic group. |
| Marion (2016)       | N at baseline-endIntervention: 36-36Control: 22-20Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 27.3 (7.5)Control: 26.7 (7.8)Sex (n male)Intervention: 29Control: 16 | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group) | 24 months                                                                                              | (re)dislocation and subluxation, post-operative complications, surgical duration | It was stated that there was a follow-up to 24 months. Only outcomes at 3-6 months follow-up were included in the meta-analysis. | - Prospective design- Each center followed its own Latarjet procedure protocol.- The choice of procedure was determined by the location of the surgery.- Assumption in the discussion: "There were probably no intraoperative complications because the arthroscopic surgeon was experienced"- Loss to follow-up (2) in the OL group for the 2-years analysis                                                                                                   |
| Metais (2016)       | N at baseline-endIntervention: 222-77                                                                                                                                                                | Intervention:                                                                                 | 6, 12 months follow-up                                                                                 | (re)dislocation and subluxation, post-operative                                  | It was stated that                                                                                                               | - Prospective design                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |

Table 6. characteristics of included studies- design, number of included patients, intervention and control group for question 2a and 2b
Richtlijn Chronische posttraumatische anterieure schouderinstabiliteit 2026

|                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                             |                              |                                                                  |                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|---------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                           | Control: 104 -38                                                                                                                                                                                         | Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group)                         |                              | complications, apprehension                                      | there was a follow-up 6, 12 months. Only outcomes at baseline were included in the meta-analysis. | - Loss to follow up for both groups at 6 and 12 months.- Patients were assigned based on which surgeon was performing the procedure at the participating center.                                                                                                                               |
| Nourissat (2016)   | N at baseline-endIntervention: 99-?Control: 85-?                                                                                                                                                 | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group) | 1, 3, 6, 12 months follow-up | None                                                             | None of the predefined outcomes was reported                                                      | - Prospective design- The two groups were not comparable at baseline- Follow-up for both groups only up to 6 months.- Follow-up at 12 months only included patients in the AL group.- The open surgery cohort was from two centers, and the arthroscopic cohort from four centers. |
| Russo (2017)       | N at baseline-endIntervention: 21-21Control: 25-21                                                                                                                                               | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group) | 12 months follow-up          | None                                                             | None of the predefined outcomes was reported                                                      | - Prospective design- Decision for the surgery not specified.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Zhu (2017)         | N at baseline-endIntervention: 46-?Control: 44-?Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 32.1 (10.3)Control: 34.8 (11.5)Sex (n male)Intervention: 26Control: 32 | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (AL group)Control:Open Latarjet (OL group) | 24 months follow-up          | (re)dislocation and subluxation, surgical duration, apprehension |                                                                                                   | - Prospective design                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| Individual studies |                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                             |                              |                                                                  |                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

Table 6. characteristics of included studies- design, number of included patients, intervention and control group for question 2a and 2b
Richtlijn Chronische posttraumatische anterieure schouderinstabiliteit 2026

|                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                          |                                                      |                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|--------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Nascimento (2024) | N at baseline-endIntervention: 44-44Control: 38-38 Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 32.5 (15.0)Control: 27.5 (12.0) Sex (n male)Intervention: 38Control: 36    | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (scope-button group) Control:Open Latarjet (open-screw group) | 2 weeks, 3-, 6-, 12-, and 24-months follow-up | Dislocation, subluxation                                                                   | The open group included 2 patients (5.3%) with a previous Bankart repair, while the arthroscopic group included 13 patients (29.5%). | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Patients in the intervention group were operated by 1 surgeon in 1 institution, whereas 4 different surgeons operated the open-screw group in another institution.</li> <li>- Retrospective design</li> </ul>                 |
| Girard (2022)     | N at baseline-endIntervention: 24-24Control: 26-26 Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 22.5 (6.8)Control: 25.5 (8.7) Sex (n male)Intervention: 19Control: 24      | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (group A) Control:Open Latarjet (group O)                     | 15, 45 days, 3, 6, 12 months follow-up        | Surgical duration, subluxation, dislocation, apprehension, Complications (intra-operative) |                                                                                                                                             | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Retrospective design</li> <li>- The decision to use the open or arthroscopic procedure was based on the timeline of the study.</li> </ul>                                                                                     |
| Gaujac (2024)     | N at baseline-endIntervention: 44-41Control: 35-31 Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 27.8 (6.8)Control: 24.9 (7.2) Sex (n female, %)Intervention: 41Control: 31 | Intervention:Arthroscopic Latarjet (group B) Control:Open Latarjet (group A)                     | 24 months follow-up                           | Complication (intra-operative, post-operative), dislocation or subluxation (recurrence)    | Recurrence of instability is defined by dislocation or subluxation.                                                                  | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Retrospective design</li> <li>- Single-surgeon study</li> <li>- Unknown who documented the complications.</li> <li>- The decision to use the open or arthroscopic procedure was based on the timeline of the study</li> </ul> |
| Tanaka (2024)     | N at baselineIntervention: 45Control: 66                                                                                                                                                                  | Intervention:Arthroscopy assisted                                                                            | 24 months follow-up                           | Dislocation I: 0 – C: 0Subluxation: I: 1 – C: 2                                       |                                                                                                                                             | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Retrospective design</li> <li>- Assessment of the outcomes relied on questionnaire-based surveys.</li> </ul>                                                                                                                  |

Table 6. characteristics of included studies- design, number of included patients, intervention and control group for question 2a and 2b
Richtlijn Chronische posttraumatische anterieure schouderinstabiliteit 2026

|                      |                                                       |                                                                   |                         |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                    |
|----------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                      | Age (mean, SD)Intervention: 17.4Control: 18.4 | (mini-open) Bristowprocedure with ABR                         |                         | Complications (post-operative I: 0 – C: 0                                                                                         | - The decision to use the open orarthroscopic procedure was based onthe timeline of the study                                              |
|                      | Sex (n female, %)Intervention: 43Control: 66  | Control:Open Bristowprocedure with openBankart repair |                         |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                    |
| Clowez (2021) | N at baselineIntervention: 34Control: 25      | Intervention:Arthroscopic procedure                           | 24 months follow-up | Apprehension I: 6 - C: 2Subluxation I: 0 - C: 4Dislocation I: 0 - C: 0Complications (intra/post-operative) I: 0- C: 0 | - Shorter Follow-up in arthroscopicprocedure.- The choice between open orarthroscopic surgery depended onthe surgeon's experience? |
|                      | Age (mean, SD)Total: 23 (5.9)                     | Control:Open procedure                                        |                         |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                    |
|                      | Sex (n female, %)Total: 8                         |                                                                   |                         |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                    |

**For further details, see risk of bias table in the appendix*